The stock market exhibited evident signs to day of a speedy recovery from the lethargic state into which it s recently forced by the temporary panic which was insugurated by Secretary Chase and fostered by the rapacious bears. Ever since that fatal Monday when the anic was at its height confusion has reigned in the vicinity of Wall street, and we might say within the monetary circles throughout the country; and the specu-lators in this vicinity have been operating, like an army and reckless sperit. But, as time ultimately brings all motters right, we shall expect soon to see a return of od and steadily increasing prices, which a plethoric money market and large additions to the railroad traffic of the country cannot fail to accomplish. The government is now spending, according to the report of Hon. Thaddens Stevens, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means in the United States House of Representatives, two millions of dollars a day over and above the amount received from it its sources of revenue; and this sum must be supplied by a continued issue of Treasury notes, however much r. Chase may feel inclined to reduce the circulation. The expenses of the country must be met, and we can see no way by which its immediate wants can be supplied except by issuing the balance of the interest bearing legal tenders and paying out the greenbacks, which eration would soon be sensibly felt in the stock mar-The dividend day on most of the leading railways is ap proaching, and, owing to the greatly increased receipts of all of them, it is expected that extra dividends will be de-clared by some, in which case they would be about the most productive property in the country.

The dividend day on most of the leading railways is approaching, and, owing to the greatly increased receipts of all of them, it is expected that extra dividends will be declared by some, in which case they would be about the most productive property in the country. Sixth ward station house yesterday afternoon, with the view of ascertaining the causes which resulted in the melancholy calamity at No. 1 Doyers street early on Monday morning. A large number of witnesses were summoned to appear Doyers street early on Monday morning. A large number of witnesses were summoned to appear and give their evidence in the case but only two were sworn. John Sullivan, who occupied the apartments in which the fire broke out, testified at great length; but he seemed to be utterly ignorant as to the origin of the fire, and nothing was elicited from Mr. Sullivan throwing the least tight on the matter. Mr. Sullivan, however, is to be further examined, and in the meanism be remained in the House of Detection. Nancy Sullivan, a girl fourteen years of age, daughter of the previous witness, testified to being awakened at three in the morning, while her father and mother were down stairs, soggaed in emptying water from the tube used by Sullivan in his business are ourrier and leather dresser. On being swatened the witness formed the room fliet with smoots, and a few was discovered only a few-feet back of and mortality giver the

The Evening Express Case.

MR. CLAME CHARGES THE REPORT BY THERE WITH MUTILATING THE BOOKS. OCCUT OF COMMON PLANS. Gefore Judge Brady.

The trial of this case having been set down for to-day, the counsel for the defendants appeared in court and stated that during the sitting of the general term last month the trial was set down for the second Monday is

June, and asked a postponement till that time.

Mr. Crain urged the speedy trial of the case, and stated that it had been postponed too often. Every courtesy had been shown the detendants; but through courtesy had been shown the detendants; but through their counsel they kept staving the case of from term to term, until finally the matter would be lost sight of.

Mr. Smyth said that on the argument before the general term Mr. Cram's partner, Mr. Robinson, effered no objection to setting the case down for Juse.

Mr. Cram thought the general term had so right to postpone the matter until June. The case was on the calendar for to day, and it ought to have been tried. He held in his hand the efficavit of his client, wherein he states that on examining the books of the Reening Express establishment, in accordance with the order of the Court, he discovered that the ledger had been mutifated, so that it was impossible to arrive at the truth. Why those alterations and erasures occurred he would leave it for the Court to infer. It certainly meant no good intection towards his client, and demanded the attention of his Moore.

Honor.

Judge Brady—I will take the papers, Mr. Cram, and read them over. In regard to the postponement, Mr. Robinson certainly did admit that he was willing every todulgence should be granted the defendant on account of his official position as a member of Congress, which rendered it difficult for him to be in attendance.

THE FULLERTON CONTEMPT CASE.

The Argument on the Habens Corpus Case Before Judge Garvin-Interesting Proceedings-Great Excitement Among the Lawyers, dec.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Garvin.

May 3.—The argument in the Fullerton contempt case this morning attracted general attention among the lawyers. The proceedings were quite interesting, and greated no little excitement in the legal fraternity. Mr. Fullerton was present, in accordance with the writ of habeas corpus, and was defended by ex-Judge Dean. The Surrogate was absent, but was represented by Mr. Loon, ex-Judge Smith and others.

Mr. Van Loon commenced the argument, and addresse the Court at some length in defence of the Surrogate's course of action, which he characterized as perfectly legal, and in strict accordance with the Revise power to commit for contempt, and the Court had no power to rejudge the proceedings. The Statutes. The statute gave the Surrogate the power to commit for contempt, and the Court had no power to rejudge the proceedings. The counsel here quoted from the Revised Statutes the clause under which the commitment was made out, and argued that, upon the face of the paper, the Court could do nothing but remand the prisoner back to the custody of the Sheriff. If, as the gontiman's petition states, he was arrested for words spoken outside the court, why there may be a defect in the proceedings, but he cannot procure a remody under this writ. The matter must be remedied by a writ of error.

Mr. Dean—You admit, then, there may be a defect in the proceedings?

Mr. Van Loon—I admit nor deep nothing. Upon the ace of this commitment—and you cannot go behind it—a contempt of court has been committed, and there is no other course for his floor to pursue but to remand the prisoner back to the custody of the Sheriff.

Mr. Dean—I am glad to see that the officer who issued this warrant has appeared by counsel who can always be found in the Surrogate's office, no matter what case comes up there. The argument of the counsel has no more relation to the question before the Court than it has to the settlement of the Danish-Holstein difficulty—(laughter)—and no lawyer who has heard the argument would come to any other conclusion. For a member of the bar to appear before a court and say something a little out of the way, and after be left the court room to be picked up in the Park and thrown into prison, is something that you know nothing about, and thrown into prison without any chance being afforded you for explanation or excuse, is certainly an illegal assumption of power which cannot be passed over lighty. I have nothing to say in regard to the merits of the controversy between my client and the Surrogate; but it is in reference to the jurisdiction of a court which arrests a member of the bar for something said no court, site he had left the court room and is totally unaware of the bar in the proceedings, that i would apeak. at 32c., less 3 per ceat, and 5,000 wet saited do. at 16c., do.

Lime.—Rockiand was in good demand, with sales of 2,000 bbls. common at $1 40, and 400 bbls. lump at $1 80, 018h.

McLasses was quiet. 250 bbls. New Orleans sold, at auction, at 85c. a 35c., and small sales, private, at $1 a $1 10, the latter for choice.

Provisions.—Roccipts, 160 bbls. pork, 60 packages beef, 568 do cut meats and 475 do, lard. Provisions were again mixed, some articles being in active request and firm while others were dull and heavy. The speculation in pork continued to be the only noteworthy feature. Under a good demand for both immediate and future deliveres, full prices were realized, yet the extreme rates quoted yesterday were scarcely obtainable to day. Beef was steady, without change in prices. Reof hams were quiet but firm Bacon was quiet, without change in prices. Cat meats were in moderate request, but with continued small receipts prices were made at 25c., a 25c. for State and 25c. a 25c for Western. Cheese sold at 16c, a 18c. In extended for the sules of pirk were 900 bbls., chedy mess, on the spot, at yesterday's prices 500 do do do mess, deliverable first half of June, at $28 25, 500 do do., from the middle of May to the middle of June, $23, and 2,000 do new do., for July, reported at $30 50 a $31. Business was much restricted by the bugh prices asked, as buyers would not give so much; $50 bbls. beef, at $15 a $18 f.r Western mess, $19 a $20 25 for extra do.; 300 pkgs, cut meats at from 115c, to 12c. for shoulders, and 15c. a 18c. for land new—the batter an extreme rate. Mr. Fullerton.—Yes; it was probaby made out three weeks ago.

Mr. Fullerton.—Yes; it was probaby made out three weeks ago.

Mr. Fullerton.—Yes; it was probaby made out three weeks ago.

Mr. Fuen.—Let us examine this warrant. Here is the filling up is one handwriting and the insertion of my client's name in another, showing to my mind that the thing was contemplated, just as my client says, about three weeks ago, and all without his knowledge. I say that here was a commitment prepared in Edvance for somebody, and the name of william Fullerton inserted. The counsel here quoted several authorities to show that the defendant ought to have been arrested at the time.] It was not presented that there was any record of conviction; nothing but this slip of paper, signed Gideon J. Tucker. This is not the regular process. They should have confo med with the courts of record, and the proceedings should have been done in the name of the "people of the State of New York," and not in the name of Gideon J. Tucker. I don't believe that the "people" are represented by Gideon J. Tucker alone, and I believe the status in the name of the "people." Now, if it please your Honor, I want to come down to the form of this paper, and I think I will show you that the gentlemen who prepared it are entirely innocent of common law or status I begin by saying that the Surrogate's Court is not a court of record. The status entered here the status is not account of record. The status entered here the status is not account of record. The status entered here the status is not account of record. The status entered here the status entered here.

I think I will show you that the gentlemen who prepared it are entirely innocent of common law or statute I begin by asying that the Surrogate's Court is not a court of record. The statute prescribes what are courts of record page 256, 3rd Revised Statutes], and the Surrogate's Court is not included in the list. Instead of being under that head, we find it in the list of courts of "limited jurisdiction." At page 361 it will be found under the head of "courts of epouliar and special jurisdiction," showing conclusively that it is not included in the list of "courts of record." Dayton on Surrogate and the Revised Statutes settles that point beyond dispute. They might as well have committed the petitioner under the vagant act as to do what they did indeed, I think this will be the last commitment of the kind ever made by the Surrogate.

Mr. Van hoon—That is not argument, your Honor.

Mr. Dean—Weil, I suppose that after this the Surrogate will know how far his jurisdiction extends. The defendant here states that the proceedings were all taken in his absence, that he committed no contempt, and is lilegally deprived of liberty for saying something, he knows not what, and he comes before your Honor and wants to know whether the issuing of this process was authorized by any judgment. In the Passmore Williamson case, which has become historical, it was decided that you could go behind the commitment, and ascertain ait the facts connected with the case; but in this matter your Honor can entertain any argument except upon the matter of mere jurisdiction. I hope that in this matter your Honor will be guided by that historical case, and weigh all the facts connected with the alleged contempt, so that my client, who has ever been held in the highest esteem by the United States as that in this matter your Honor will be guided by that historical case, and weigh all the facts connected with the alleged contempt, so that my client, who has ever been beid in the highest esteem by the United States as well as by the civil courts, may have full and ample justice done him; and that in rendering your decision you will satisfy the court which issues this process that there is yet such a thing as personal liberty. (Applause.)

Mr. Van Loon—I should have supposed that my learned friend would have been the last person in the world to talk about personal liberty. He has not attempted to abswer the points I have raised on the legal propositions, but has take occasion to arraign all who are in the habit of trying cases in the urrogate's Court. He has been trying me and trying the personal character of the Surrogate. He can try me from now until eternity, and he will never hurt me. I suppose that every lawyer in this room is aware of the lact that Passmore Williamson was remanded back to jail because he would not purpe himself of the contempt imputed to him, and remained in prison several months, until the court, in its elemency, let him out. That is my recollection of the case. The process by which life. Fullerton was committed charges him with having committed contempt. It charges it in the language of the statute itself by which Mr. Fullerton was committed charges him with having committed contempt. It charges it in the language of the statute, and it is even stronger than the statute itself.

Mr. Van Loon—The statute under which the office was created. If, inatead of reading Cowan's Treatine, the gentleman had read Blackstone, I think he would have discovered under what statute the Surrogate got his authority to commit for contempt of court. New, on the face of the papers, if there is any irragularity, I will go as far as the gentleman will in seeing that Mr. Fullerton is fully vindicated, but this must be at the proper time and in the proper place. They are asking this Court to go into the controversy on a writ which only produces the body of the prisoner. The practice has been for the court to look to the authority and nothing else. If the Surrogate has no juriediction, then I am wrong but if he has authority to commit for contempt of owers, then the learned argument of the gettleman amounts to very little if the defendant committed contempt of owers, then the learned argument of the gettleman amounts to very little if the defendant committed contempt of owers, then the learned argument of the gettleman amounts to very little if the defendant committed contempt of owers, then the learned argument of the gettleman for our and they are not of court before any proceedings could be listituted against him, there is not my the process or manufacture of the statute is used in making out the paper.

Mr. Pean—I say it is not in the language of the statute. I merely submit that this process on its face shows that he contempt has been committed. In other words, the commitment is valid on its face is and the sould be a statute of the gentleman on the other side, but at the close of his argument he lotimated that we might obtain redress by means of a writ of error.

Mr. Dean—I did not intend to reply to the remarks by disclaiming any intention to try the personal character of the gentleman on the other side, but at the close of his argu
